1. King William was King James's son, all the royal races run,
On his breast he wore a star, pointing to the Prussian War.
2. Choose in the east, choose in the west, choose the one you love the best,
If he's not here to take our place, choose another with all your grace.
3. Down on this carpet you shall kneel, while the grass grows round your feet.
Salute your bride and kiss her sweet, rise again upon your feet.
